You might not think that this restaurant is anything special by its curb appeal, but it is a real find in Baltimore. Tio Pepe's is a Spanish-style restaurant featuring a variety of wonderful dishes. I didn't recognize the names of many wines on the list, but the waiter was able to give me a recommendation. From there, I asked him to recommend a meal selection and I wasn't disappointed. Be prepared to spend a little money here, but the experience is so different that it's worth it.
